gave Wally a newsletter expense invoice of $148.36 for April, May, June and July 2005 newsletters.

Wally received a $175 check from Fuller Craft Museum for woodturning workshop. It was agreed to send $75 to CERF for craft disaster support.

Lenny the Librarian reported limited activity. New members should take advantage of the Library. He mentioned that the Do-it-yourself channel has a turning program on Saturdays, noon and 9:30 pm.

A call for refreshment volunteers was made. November 2005 is still available! Mal mentioned the Google Earth program is now free and worth downloading.

Andy Osborne, Bernie Feinerman and Bob Iuliano attended and reported on the Jean Francois Escoulen demonstration and workshop in Rhode Island.

Lathe Raffle

A 44" bed AMT Lathe (less motor) with a home made table and a box of accessories will be raffled at the August meeting. Submit a blind bid to Hank.
The lathe can be seen at Hank's shop.

Angelo plans to set up a New England Woodturning Symposium in 2006. A meeting will be held on August 20th with New England clubs.

Audubon Farm Day is October 1st.

Ken reported that Fuller Craft Museum will have a Rude Osolnik Exhibit in mid October. His daughter lives in Brockton.

Ken also mentioned that our show at Fuller will require 75 to 100 pieces - 2-3 pieces each member. They will be on display January 14th to March 12th. A donation of 15% should be made to Museum for items sold. A sign up sheet will be available at August meeting. The inventory list is to be submitted by November 14th.

John Shooshan had boxes of woodturning and woodworking magazines free for the taking.

Jeff reported on the Penn State Arts Festival. Eight - twelve woodturners demonstrating. Turned Urns sold for $5000 each!

Hands On session set for Saturday, August 13th. 10am at Hank's Shop. Projects from Brockton Liberty Tree due at September meeting.

Harold Dyke work was featured in a front page article in the Taunton Call. He had an exhibit at the Taunton Public Library through July.

A Wood Swap was held.
