Angelo, Congratulations & Thank You from the Dust Bowl

At the outset – Let us give a great big hand and congratulations from our group. A personal note injected here - for years I've been trying to get someone to run for a representative for the New England area on the AAW Board of Directors. After a botched election, things were righted and we had a local representative on the board.

At our November meeting I asked for a thumbnail report of the AAW activities. After a few minutes of information Angelo announced that he was elected to the board again, then casually said he was elected President of AAW! It took a few minutes to sink in. I was stunned and couldn't say too much except to join in with the others and give him a big hand. Angelo Iafraate you made me feel good all over. I am so happy and proud for you. On behalf of the rest of us – we wish you the best and if you need a hand or two just yell out.

To the Massachusetts South Shore Wood Turners – A big thank you from the Cahill clan and the girls. The Christmas party was fantastic. I was very pleased to see you entering through the door. It was a great turnout – and what a table! You ladies did a yeomen's job – and maybe even a couple of men with your potluck setups. To top it all off my daughters even got me a little teary eyed. I want to thank you all very much. We had a great time.

From Wood to Art

If a tree falls in the woods...pick it up and make something beautifull, suggests local artist Wallace Kemp, founding member of the South Shore Woodturners, who will be demonstrating the art of wood turning at the Duxbury Free Library, 77 Alden St., at 2 p.m. Feb. 5. He will transform hunks of wood into bowls and tops, and discuss the properties of wood. An exhibit of his work will be on display. Tickets are free, but required, and can be picked up at the circulation desk. For more information, call 781-934-2721, Ext. 104, 125, or 128.
